HARRY DALTON

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

GENERAL MANAGER

Named Executive Vice President - General Manager of the Milwaukee Brewers on November 20, 1977, Harry Dalton has already begun to show in only one short season, the results that Brewer President Allan H. "Bud" Selig expected. Taking over a club that finished in sixth place in the Eastern Division with a 67-95 record in '77, Dalton saw the Brewers finish with the fourth best record (93-69) in the major leagues and a third place finish in the rugged Eastern Division.

Dalton made several moves to turn the Brewers into the top scoring team in baseball last season, but perhaps his most important at a Brewer official came on January 20, 1978. On that date, two months after he was hired, he named George Bamberger as Brewer manager. Bamberger, who had been hired as the Orioles pitching coach by Dalton when he was with Baltimore, proceeded to be just what the doctor ordered as he walked away with nearly every post-season honor for Manager of the Year.

While Dalton made several key additions, the most important moves he made brought outfielder Ben Oglivie, catcher Buck Martinez and pitcher Andy Replogle to the Brewers. Oglivie was the fifth leading hitter (.303) in the American League and he slammed 18 homers and drove in 72 runs. Martinez, a fine defensive catcher, was one of the major reasons the Brewers set a club record and let the American League with only 4 passed balls. Replogle, purchased from Baltimore just before the start of the season, won 9 games and proved to be a clutch pitcher after making the jump to the majors from Double A ball.

This past winter Dalton didn't rest on his laurels either, as he signed Jim Slaton from the Re-entry Draft. Slaton, a 17 game winner with Detroit in '78, was the player the Brewers had traded to Detroit for Oglivie. Dalton thus obtained needed lefthanded power in Oglivie and then reacquired Slaton, who tops the Brewers All-Time Top Ten List in several important categories. Another key addition to the '79 roster is Reggie Cleveland, a veteran relief pitcher picked up from the Texas Rangers for two minor leaguers and cash. Slaton and Cleveland, who totaled 22 wins and 12 saves in 1978 were thus added to the staff without giving up a member of the Brewers roster.

Dalton, a firm believer in developing a strong total organization, has also expanded the scouting staff to a Brewer record of 18 scouts and has added another farm club, giving the Brewers five clubs for the first time in the team's history. The addition of key front office personnel like Ray Poitevint, Director of Scouting and Player Development, Walter Shannon, Assistant General Manager, and Walter Youse, East Coast Scouting Supervisor, has also added quality as well as quantity to the total baseball operations system.

But quality is something Harry has been used to throughout his career, which began as the Assistant Farm Director of the Baltimore Orioles in 1953. Moving up to Farm Director in '61 and then Vice President of Player Personnel from 1966-71, Dalton saw the Orioles with 4 pennants and 2 world championships in his six years at the helm. They won pennants in '66, '69, '70 and '71 and world titles in '66 and '70. The O's won over 100 games his last three seasons in Baltimore, finishing with a .603 winning percentage (582-383) under his reign. His teams finished first four times and second once. Having spent 18 total years in the Baltimore organization, he was responsible for acquiring Frank Robinson, Mike Cuellar, Pat Dobson and Don Buford in his role as Vice President of Player Personnel. He moved on to the California Angels as Executive Vice President and General Manager on October 27, 1971 and he acquired All-Stars Nolan Ryan and Bobby Bonds and Re-entry prizes Joe Rudi, Don Baylor and Bob Grich while with the Angels.

Two of his last four seasons with the Angels Dalton and his staff earned baseball's "Organization of the Year" honors. But honors weren't something new for Harry, since he captured one of baseball's most coveted awards in 1970 when he was named the Major League Executive of the Year.

Dalton, a 1950 graduate of Amherst College, was a First Lieutenant in the Air Force. Having served 37 months, he found time to earn a Bronze Star for outstanding work as a combat press officer. While in college and high school he worked for the Springfield (Mass.) Daily News for five years.

He makes his home in River Hills, Wisconsin, with his wife Patricia, and their daughters, Kim, 16, Cindy, 13 and Debbie, 11.

The Milwaukee Brewers logo is beginning its second year of existence, following its selection from over 2,000 entries in a month long contest that was open to the public, both amateur and professional, in October and November of '77. Tom Meindel, a Art History student at the University of Wisconsin - Eau Claire, designed the logo and earned the $2,000 first prize. The logo combines the lower case letters 'm' and 'b', the club's initials, to form a baseball mitt.

DON'T THROW THAT GOPHER BALL!

Bill Castro, Mike Caldwell and Lary Sorensen didn't throw many home run pitches last season, perhaps one of the key reasons for their success. Castro allowed only one homer every 25 innings to top the club in home run ratio. Caldwell and Sorensen also had impressive figures, especially since they were regular starters. Caldwell threw one homer every 21 innings and Sorensen once every 20.
